Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Friday 24 Dec 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Christmas Day generally cloudy, rain edging northeast. Cold wind.

This Evening and Tonight:
Rain and drizzle spreading north-eastwards through the evening, turning persistent across most parts overnight. Remaining mild in the south, but becoming colder across northern areas. Minimum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Saturday:
A damp, mostly cloudy Christmas Day for many. Probably drier for a time around midday, mainly across Norfolk. Feeling chilly with a brisk easterly breeze. Maximum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Boxing Day, morning rain clearing east, turning drier and less cold. Monday, further spell of rain likely for a time. Tuesday, probably rather cloudy, the odd shower. Temperatures near average.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.